Preview Q3: Demand from the furniture industry remains firm

Against the backdrop of enduring strong demand for furniture, we believe the positive momentum Surteco experienced in the first half of the year should have continued in Q3. We believe there is a certain chance that Surteco might raise the guidance in case it delivers a strong set of results in Q3, as expected. Our present price target is EUR 37.

Ifo index indicates favorable business conditions also in Q3

According to the Ifo climate index for the German furniture industry, which is the most important customer group for Surteco, the good momentum we saw at the end of Q2 continued in Q3. Against that backdrop, we believe the good demand Surteco experienced in the first half of the year should have continued in Q3. Consequently, we expect a strong development of output / revenues in the quarter. Due to the current high level of raw material costs (48.8% of sales in Q2), we expect earnings to only grow disproportionally, though.

Upside potential for the guidance

After H1, Surteco guided for revenues of more than EUR 700m in 2021 (was ~EUR 675m before). We are at EUR 722m. Also, the EBIT guidance was raised as Surteco anticipated to surpass the formerly guided EUR 52m, without being more specific. Our present estimate for EBIT is at EUR 60m (so is consensus), but this might be revised in case Surteco delivers a strong set of results in Q3, as expected. Our present price target is EUR 37.

What to expect from Q3?

According to the Ifo climate index for the German furniture industry, which is the most important customer group for Surteco, the good momentum we saw at the end of Q2 continued in Q3: Regarding the assessment of the "current state of the industry", we saw a significant improvement from +3 to +32. On the other hand, business expectations came down a bit, but remained in positive territory (see below).

Against that backdrop, we believe the good momentum Surteco experienced in the first half of the year will have continued in Q3. Consequently, we expect a strong development of output / revenues in the quarter. Due to the current high level of raw material costs (48.8% of sales in Q2), we expect earnings to only grow disproportionally, though.

Also, the EBIT guidance was raised as Surteco anticipated to surpass the formerly guided EUR 52m, without being more specific. Our present estimate for EBIT is at EUR 60m (as is consensus), but we see upside potential in case Surteco delivers a strong set of results in Q3, as expected.
